G.W.V.A. NOTES

We cannot let last week's events slip away without a word of sincere thanks to all those who worked so hard and tirelessly. We could enlarge without end but those who took part know and we hope, understand how much we are indebted to them.

The Women's Institute are to be congratulated on the splendid support which was so heartily enjoyed by everyone who had the privilege of eating at the dinner. We have also thanked Mr. J. A. Robinson for his welcome cup of ice cream, and Nachtergaele who kindly sent us a couple of boxes of apples.

Again, we refer to the significance of America Day.

HALLOWEEN MOMENTS

Only two minutes from the busy round of mundane affairs, a few seconds culled from the many that pass unnoted in the mad rush to attain the unattainable, and the whirl of machinery was hushed, hammer and pen were laid aside, and the solemn silence caused some people to look sheepishly at the silence, and what is this to me?

Here and there great figures stir the attention, mindful of naught save only the link of vivid memory that binds them, forward to the alien souls who rest beneath an alien sod.

How must those whistles have sounded to the womanhood of Canada, who, so heroically gave their all that Right might triumph over Might! Only a few brief moments but what memories they call, of the sacrifices made by men and women of our race during the five most critical years in the world's history.

What more fitting tribute could be paid to the memory of those splendid men? No blast of music, no hysterical waving of flags; a simple, silent, dignified memory, of our race for comrades; of that love which passeth all understanding—a fitting and ever verdant tribute To The Glorious.

The conception is worthy of our King, and this brief ceremony of the spirit must, above all, bind still more firmly together that splendid structure of all the ages.

—The British Empire.

We are glad to announce that our local is growing daily. We would like all returned men to come and see and if they do not care to join we would still like to have a talk with them.

Any returned men who need assistance or advice are heartily welcome to come and make inquiries.

We are all looking forward with a ment which is being provided by the Chauvin Agricultural Society. The names of the patrons of the society are an evening full of fun and good cheer and we hope that the Troop will turn out as well as the farmers and others did to our show.

In another column will be found particulars of the organization called the Ladies' auxiliary Branch of the Great War Veterans' Association of Canada.

Curling Notes

The ice has been ready for a week, and several games have already been played, but owing to the heavy snow Sunday was not in shape to play on Monday, it is not however, expected that this condition will last long.

The following rinks were drawn up Monday night to start the ball rolling, or rather the rocks curling:
There may be some included in the list who have decided not to enjoy this sport, it will be conferring a favor if you will notify the Secretary if in this class so that your place may be filled. There may be some who are inclined curling who have not been included, if these parties will pay their dues, as drawn up within twenty minutes the whole structure was smoking hot.

The aged couple are now the guests of Amel St. Pierre.

The following day the home of Mr. Dorland was away from home, Mr. Dorland and two of the children were around the stable and yard doing the chores, when they observed the house to be on fire. The two younger children were gorged out in safety, but everything else was lost. Neighbors came over as quickly as possible, but the fire had the greater speed.

Mrs. Dorland and children are staying with Mr. and Mrs. Dorland, Sr. The organization is a relief for the sufferers, but the details of their scheme is not available before to press.

A card party will be held in aid of Sacred Heart Hall in aid of Mr. and Mrs. Julien, who suffered the loss of their home through fire, Wednesday November 12th. Everybody is asked to buy a ticket.

The card party will be held Tuesday, November 25th, in the Sacred Heart Hall, Chauvin. Admission 50 cents per couple.

TWO HOMELESS FAMILIES IN OUR MIDST: TWO FIRES: NO LOSS OF LIFE FORTUNATELY

The past week has witnessed two disasters by fire in our district. In both cases the homes have been entirely destroyed, though fortunately no loss of life or injury has been incurred. Last Wednesday afternoon our old friend Mr. Julien, (well-known for his clever carving) noticed fire in the ceiling. It was not possible for Mr. Julien and his wife to overcome the flames, and within twenty minutes the whole structure was smoking hot. The aged couple are now the guests of Amel St. Pierre.

An Irishman's Luck

'Ah, I heard at meeting on Sunday as how she was very low; by your Pa coming up I guess they do think she's going to last—long and her with these little tots and a husband that never comes home from town, not to say sober—and you'll be waiting round for your Pa to pick you up on his way back—but sure alive! I'm forgetting, and you won't have had your dinner.

'Oh, yes, thank you, I've just had my lunch down by the creek—' 'Well, a hearty boy like you can eat any way do with a bit of cake or pie extra, and I'll get you a drink of fresh buttermilk.'

'Oh, Miss Dawson, I have had a big lunch and I have a lot more left in my bag, I couldn't eat a bit more,' and Tad spoke with hasty decision for this proffered kindly hospitality threatened to disorganize his contemplated 'lay-out.'

'Well, if you say so, I'll just go on with my mixing, and you can wait a while, and maybe have a piece before your Pa calls for you.'

'I'm not going back with Dad! Tad felt he must make a plunge. I'm going to call at the school for Miss Raye and to drive her down to town with my Tom Dawsen's mare and buck-board that's been at the Dingle all winter and—'

'Well, that will be fine for you all here isn't a nicer mannered nor to say kinder-hearted young lady in this country—and the folk's say the way she gets the children on in their learning—is just wonderful.' There's Mrs. McTavish was telling me only last week as how her little Pete—and I've been on his little escapades in the district he's in—can just figure out like a—'

'And I've got great news for you—just great! and in spite of Tad's effort to keep cool these must have been a thrill in his voice, for Mary Ann sopped suddenly in his word and looked at him sharply.

'Why, what does the boy mean? If there's any bad news for her you Pa has never left a child like you to go and tell her—it would be a shame—so it would.'

'I don't say it was bad news, protested Tad, its good news—just splendid—there's been a letter come to you—you're not going to be sick, Miss Dawson?—for at the word 'letter' white as her complexion allowed, and clutched at the side of the table.

'Oh, it's Nothing—nothing at all! I have a dizzy spell at times these hot days, and when I stoop over you didn't you see me saying 'your Pa'—'

'and Mary Ann resumed her story, this time with her back to Tad. Dad had a letter on Wednesday from the father of the Dennis boys, who used to live here and went to the war—it was Mr. Jack that was killed and his brother is all well and alive.'

'Sure, now, and that is great news—father, he'll be real pleased—he always liked that Tom best—he was my friend like when I was a boy—'

'and Tad thinks he may be back in six weeks from now.'

'Two May Ann felt as if the solid earth were tumbling under her feet, but she was not one to yield without a struggle. 'Well, if I were you, I wouldn't go for to tell Miss Raye as he was coming back before you know for sure—maybe he will be going home first—in course, I could not help hearing what the folks said about his being took with the school marm last summer—'

'and Tad thinks he may be back in six weeks from now.'

'Oh, yes, but he will—and I guess it won't be very long, for he got sick leave—you see he was wounded—and Dad thinks he may be back in six weeks from now.'

'What's the boy talking about with his 'letter,' and Mary Ann appealed scornfully with outspread open hands to some imaginary third person. 'If folks send letters from forin, heathen lands, where everybody is a fighter, they've only themselves to blame if they get lost, without casting their slurs on decent folks as never lost one in twenty years; you ask the postmaster in town and see what he'll tell you.'

'I did ask the postmaster in town, temper was running away with his manners, and he remembers the letter quite well, for he says the letter was so fat that he weighed it twice over to see if it was overweight and then let it slide because if he put the overcharge on it your father as likely as not would not send the five cents down.'

'The evidences of Mary Ann being 'sick' this time were so evident and alarming that Tad's anger evaporated as quickly as it had arisen, for she stumbled rather than walked to her father's old arm chair by the stove and threw her apron over her head, old, kind 'that.'

'It's a cruel boy as you are, to come telling a lonely woman as she's a thief,' she sobbed. 'My poor mother as she's been in her grave if she knew as she'd worn herself into her grave keeping the floor clean after a lot of their feet, be it never so muddy outside, and her that careful she wouldn't mislay even an almanac for kidney pills if so be as it had a name on it—only to be called a thief after all—it's cruel hard, so it is!'

'Tad had anticipated some possible emotion on the part of Evelyn in his nature, though possibly embarrassing; this collapse of Mary Ann,

'But, Miss Dawson, he stammered, nobody says you are a—'

'say for sure, that Miss Raye hadn't got the letter—but that I thought she hadn't, and I'd been so sure as she could get the stamp to my collection—and the postmaster just said that perhaps it hadn't been called for or perhaps got in the wrong box—he did say that the post office people in the country were a kind of—amateurs—'

you know, and most regular like their clerks in town.'

'and she was doing some rather hard. 'Well, perhaps you didn't mean to speak so hard—and you a minister's son—and indeed your Pa did call up after mother's funeral and was as kind as could be, and said a prayer just as if we had been his own folks.'

'Oh, I'm sure Dad never thought a thing about it,' said Tad, much relieved to get on easier going, 'and all that the postmaster said was that perhaps it had got a kind of devalued—you know.'

'It is just possible,' and Mary Ann's voice implied a very remote contingency as she wiped her eyes on her apron and rose from her chair, 'It's just possible if it came on that day when father sorted the mail, because I made a mistake, and if it will make you easier like I don't mind looking over the boxes.'

'I'm sure if you would it would be awfully kind of you,' said Tad gratefully.

Grossmith Concert To A Unique Recital

The only appearance of Leslie Grossmith, famous English entertainer, is arousing enthusiasm amongst the young people of the town, who are looking forward to a genuine musical treat and unusual enjoyment. The character of Mr. Grossmith's entertainment is absolutely unique. The following press notices will describe better than anything else the wonderful versatility of the man.

"Mr. Grossmith is both accomplished and versatile. He not only is a musician, as well, revealing his artistry as a mimic, as a pianist, a monologist and composer. Mr. Grossmith has made the result that the audience is much delighted with whole some fun."

GLOBBE; BOSTON, MASS.
Leslie Grossmith has a clear and nimble wit, and never fails to raise a hearty laugh. He is aided by a musical gift of a high order and is an artist to be reckoned with.

NEWS; MOOSE JAW, SASK.
"As an Actor, pianist, impersonator and composer, one seldom meets the equal of Leslie Grossmith. His superiority in any one of these lines is not often heard either. 'Artistie' may be used to describe all this performer's work."

LEADER; REGINA, SASK.
Mr. Grossmith is doing a considerable educational lecture on the subject of music, which he gives in the schools churches throughout the country. At the Collegiate Institute at Regina, Prince Albert, North Battleford, and the Pro-Cathedral at Saskatoon, Mr. Grossmith's splendid effort was received with an enthusiasm seldom surpassed in Western Canada.

The Cheapest Rate for Farm Buildings is quoted at Forty Cents per $100 per annum; Three years for $1.20 per $100; and this rate is only quoted by the WAWESA MUTUAL ASSURANCE COMPANY. This is a purely farmers' company, and handles only farm property

INSURE NOW AND FEEL SAFE

Canadian Pacific Railway Lands: Call in and see the price list: 20 years terms, one-tenth cash payment with application; no further payment of capital until the fourth year. Interest at six per cent per annum. If the necessary improvements are executed in the first year, the interest will be reduced to two per cent for two years. This is a good proposition, and these lands are being rapidly absorbed. Do not delay until too late, as these lands will be turned over again at a big profit.

Hudsons Bay Lands. I have the latest prices on all the holdings of the Hudsons Bay Company and am ready to quote you at any time. The terms are:—8 equal payments with interest at seven per cent per annum. The prices are now down to a very low figure, and these lands are sure to turn out to be a good business proposition. Values will soar again, and the H.B. Lands are mighty good buying at present quotations. That quarter alongside your own will make a fine addition to your farm; and, believe me, it is better to be in on the ground floor when you buy.

Loan Companies have all kinds of Money to Loan on Improved Farm Property, Pist Mortgage. I am advised by one of the most reliable firms that their great concern at the present time is to find sufficient applications to take up this surplus money. Interest at eight per cent. Five or ten year terms. No commissions charged to the Mortgagor; and the costs of obtaining same were never so low as at the present time. If you are interested, call or write; but remember that there is no shortage of cash for this purpose.

Childrens Corner

A man rode up a hill, and yet he walked. How was this?
Yette (yet he) was the name of his dog.

The Strongest Thing

An Indian magician was walking one evening by the banks of the Ganges, when an owl flew by, carrying in its beak a little mouse.
Being frightened, it dropped the mouse, and the Magician, who was a kind-hearted man, took the little creature home, and healed it, and changed it into a very beautiful girl.

"Now, my dear," he said, "I must find you a husband." "Whom would you like to marry? I am a great magician and able to perform wonderful things, and I can carry out your slightest wish."
The adopted daughter of the Magician seemed pleased: her eyes twinkled.
"I should like to marry the most powerful being in the universe," she said.
"There is nothing in the universe more powerful than the Sun," said the Magician. "I will marry him to you." So he asked the Sun to marry her.
"I am not the most powerful thing being," said the sun. "Look at the great cloud that covers me and hides my light. He is far greater and stronger than I!"
"Well, you must marry my adopted daughter," said the Magician to the Cloud.

"There's somebody stronger than I," said the Cloud. "The Wind tosses me about just as he pleases."
But the Magician found that the Wind was not as strong as the Mountain, which towered, terrace upon terrace, right up into the sky, and stopped the fiercest tempest.
"And there's somebody stronger than I," said the Mountain. "Look at the Mouse, which bores holes in my side, and lives there whether I like it or not. All my strength will not drive it away."
The Magician was grieved at the result of his inquiries. He felt sure that his adopted daughter would never stoop so low as to wed a mouse. To his great surprise, however, she was delighted to hear that the Mouse was the strongest creature in the world. So the Magician shanghered her back into a mouse, the shape in which he had found her, and the two were very happily married.
"You can alter anyone's appearance, but that does not alter their nature."

WHEAT & HIGH COST OF LIVING

Peter Cameron, a prominent farmer and member of the Manitoba G.O.A., at Westbourne, appeared before the Board of Commerce last week and presented evidence to show that the effect of the price of wheat on the cost of living had been entirely over-rated. Mr. Cameron had gone to considerable trouble and expense to collect his evidence. He had made arrangements by which the cost of meals prepared in the home was estimated by several Winnipeg women. Detailed accounts of all food eaten, and the cost of each item were kept. In one case the average cost of 210 meals was 11 1-2 cents bread. In another the average cost of 126 meals was 15 31-42 cents, with less than 1 1/2 cents per meal for bread. Two other estimates gave around 10 cents as the average cost of meals with the cost of bread eaten correspondingly low.

Argument for Farmers

In his argument for the farmers, Mr. Cameron said it was contended that the high cost of wheat was the chief cause of the high cost of living, and that wheat regulated the price of all other foodstuffs. "We contend," he went on, "that wheat does not regulate the price of all other foodstuffs, nor has it done so during the past five years. When the government in 1917 put the price of wheat down from $1.16 a bushel to $2.21 1/2, a difference of 83 cents a bushel, did other things come down? No, but they kept going up right along, while the price of wheat has been fixed for three years at all other foodstuffs have gone up. We then the price of wheat was fixed, why did not the price of other remain at the same price when the price of wheat was fixed. If the price of wheat regulates the price of all other foodstuffs why does $3.00 in Minneapolis produce bacon 23 cents a pound less than $2.24 wheat produces bacon being busy with the Winnipeg regulator or prices must be out of commission and needs adjusting. In January, 1917 I shipped a car of wheat to Minneapolis and received over $500 a car more than I could get in Winnipeg for the same grade of wheat after paying cents a bushel duty.

"The howl about the high cost of living has been going on all of this last summer, while beef, butter, milk and cheese were being produced on grass without grain—in fact, the greater part of beef, butter, milk and cheese produced in Manitoba is produced without grain. How does wheat affect the prices of coarse grain in the production of beef, butter, milk and cheese? In the tests that have been made in Winnipeg of the cost of food for a family bread costs about one-tenth of what the other foodstuffs for a family cost, while it supplies one-third of the food value needed for the family, showing that wheat, at the present prices, is by far the cheapest food value, and if wheat is the cheapest food we use, and if it is a regulator of food prices, why does it not bring the other foodstuffs price down? A working man will wear four pairs of overalls and two smocks in a year, besides the pants he wears in winter, so my men tell me. The increase in price since 1914 is $12 on four pairs of overalls and two smocks. A man can buy all the bread he needs for a year, according to the tests we have made for $11.68. I bought the suit I have on for $31 before the war. I cannot get as good to-day for $35. The difference of $4 would buy all the flour for a family of five for a year. The average cigarette smoker smokes 25 cents worth of cigarettes in a day, which would more than keep a family of five persons in bread for a day."

Bread Still Cheap Food

"The cost of bread for a man in Winnipeg for a day would not buy half a drink of beer, nor an ice cream cone. A banker told me recently he considered growing wheat the biggest gamble in this country, and it certainly is more risky than formerly. We grew wheat for over 20 years without black rust; beginning with 1904, we have had four black rust years in 15 years. In November, 1914, wheat was $1.22 1/2. Wages on the farm have more than doubled to the farmer, but the price of wheat has not been doubled. If a banker looks on wheat as the biggest such a necessary food as it is for human beings, surely the farmer ought to have a fair price for his wheat. If the farmer has to produce at pre-war prices and pay war wages, he will soon be out of business, and what a great many seem to want is pre-war prices for what they buy and war wages when they work."

ARTLAND ARGUS

Remember the date, November 25 for the Soldiers' Dance at Brady school house.

Artland is welcome, if not in the fashion, and matches and coal have become Cherished Memories.

And a temperature in the playful neighbourhood of about 35 below zero, before breakfast naturally adds to the humour of the situation.

We regret to note the departure of Mr. and Mrs. Alan Michel, who we understand, respond taking up their permanent residence in British Columbia.

Like ships that pass in the night, nomenclatures such as the above, and they are frequent in this far west.

Notices were put up at this point last week, calling for tenders on the transport of the King's mail, rural delivery from Artland Post Office.

A critical, but much esteemed correspondent writes to us as follows:— Perhaps among your next week's notes you might draw attention to that agreeable function at the Brady school last Friday. The proceedings took the form of a "miscellaneous shower" for Sergeant Frank Wright and his bride who came from England a few months ago; originally such was too have taken place at their new home, but unfortunately it could not be finished in time, so Brady school, famous around the district for its enjoyable dances, was the "venue". The school was just comfortably filled, many being absent, probably some having been busy with the threshing operations. The beautiful gifts, both useful and ornamental, were displayed on a table at the head of the room and were much admired. Mr Jim Coe gave a few pleasant remarks thanking the ladies for their lovely presents to which both Sergt Wright and his wife suitably replied.

Dancing was carried on with great spirit till the early hours, while Mr Coe, Lachon and Mr James McKague gave capital step dances. Mr McKague and his son Arthur contributed when the time came to sing "God Save the King".

The refreshments were ably looked after by Mrs Johannes, Mrs Richelt, Mrs Jack Graham, of the Narrows and Mrs Willie Wright.

Four cars of the beef were shipped from here last week. Three cars from A. Newport and one car from J. Sutfen, for Winnipeg.

For the moment cars for grain and live stock are not available, all cars being pressed into a rush through with coal from the mines.

J. Vimp, late of the C. E. force, who returned from Saskatoon last Friday, reports an enthusiastic gathering at a banquet of the members of the late 65th battalion—at the above place.

Recipes Using Brown Sugar

ENGLISH GINGER NUTS

1-2 Cup Shortening
1 Egg
1-4 Teaspoonful Salt
1 Cup Brown Sugar
2 Cups Pastry Flour
2 Teaspoonfuls Ground Gingers
Cream the shortening, add the brown sugar and when this is well mixed add the beaten egg. Sift the ginger and salt with the flour. Roll into little balls between the palms of the hands. Bake in a moderate oven. A blanched almond or a bit of citron pressed on the top of each ball before baking makes them more attractive.

PEANUT DROP CAKES

4 Tablespoons Peanut Butter
4 Tablespoons milk
1-2 Cup Brown Sugar
1 Egg
1 Cup Flour
2 teaspoonfuls Baking Powder
1-2 Teaspoonful Salt
1 Teaspoonful Lemon Juice
Combine in order given, sifting salt and baking powder with the flour. Drop from a spoon on a greased pan and bake in a moderate oven.

REBROWN SUGAR ICING

2 Cups brown Sugar
1 Egg
1-2 Cup Water.
1-2 Teaspoonful Vanilla.
Boiled icing is much more easily made with brown sugar than with white and has a better flavor. Boil the sugar and water until the mixture will form a fairly firm ball when tried in cold water. Have the white of the egg stiffly beaten, and pour the syrup over the egg, beating all the time, the vanilla.

Useful Hints

When making pillows make a slip of strong mosquito netting and put the feathers into this. Slip this first pillow into the ticking and fasten with clasps. The feathers can be easily removed for airing and the ticking for washing.

To remove the wild taste from prairie chicken or any wild fowl, soak in water in which a teaspoonful of soda has been added.

To wash varnished ceilings or wood work, add a little cold oil to the water. They will then retain their glossiness.

To take the place of a dustless mop use a piece of soft cloth on the broom when sweeping floor.

A little powdered borax put into the rinse water will whiten clothes and keep prints and other things from fading.

The most important point in buying Alfalfa seed is that it is from the hardest stain of Alfalfa procurable.

When preparing irrigated land for Alfalfa, Level up the surface before the seed is planted.

The average man does not know his poor relations and his rich relations do not know him.

Agricultural Society Eight Years Record

Briefly reviewed in this manner, it is apparent that the small and faithful band are steady and consistent workers. They are well worth an hearty cheery vote of thanks.

Its Aims Are Your Aims

To conduct the aim and object of this society is the very thing you are finding essential in your success in farming. Therefore the society needs you, and you need the Society. No, there's no need of crepe for the society! The only crepe needed is for a species of mankind, fortunately unknown in this district—Don't tell me, I know it all—species

But is that all? Has the society of this organization already been completed?

Beginning Of A New Era

The Chauvin Agricultural Society has done a fine work, has still more to do; and will do it in a splendid manner to but for one thing—it needs you to join and do your bit." Just as surely as the end of the day is the beginning of the next, so the end of this period of the history of the Chauvin Agricultural Society the beginning of another and better day.

This is not the place where we all get our work, this is the place where we all get on and go forward.

The Society is getting into its stride and every farmer is wanted to come and help and let the Society help him in the helping. We said, farmers, excuse us, we should have said farmers' wives and families also.

Is A Technical Guild

The Agricultural Society is the guild or trade society of the local farmers who seek to study their business. The farmer and his craft suffer mutually when it is neglected. It is essentially the farmers' society, run by farmers, and in all its work tends to improve and develop the science and practice of farming. It is so organized and operated that it gives to the community infinitely more than it takes. Not alone does it provide a larger amount of prize money than it takes from the exhibitor, but it—as we have already said—gives its members new ideas and correct false ones.

The Only Organization Of Its Kind

It is a good thing to belong to the U. F. A. or it's sister organization, this provides in a splendid manner for the political, economic and social aspects of the farmers interests. But to the Agricultural Society falls the duty of upbuilding and improving his knowledge and practise of the technical side of this work.

An Irishman's Luck

The butter finished, Mary Ann retired to her room—to wash her hands she said, and after a delay of a few minutes reappeared.

"Here's a picture book as you can be a-looking at while I go over the boxes," she said, handing Tad a copy of the "Graphic." "It's Miss Rave sure she would not mind your opening it, and you can take it along to this. Perhaps, hardly matched with her claim to exactness in following office regulations, but it was not desirable that Tad should follow her too closely in her search for the missing letter, and Tad was entirely suspicious. He had done little more than slip it out of its cover and straighten out the stiff leaves to look the better at the pictures when Mary Ann gave a startled cry—when not too flustered Mary Ann had considerable talent—rather warped and developed along wrong lines.

"Sure to mercy! and if here is not ed quickly round from the office desk, from Africa and all, and with the letters T.M.D. in the corner, just as I often mind seeing on Mr. Tom's letters to his Ma—now, isn't that real wonderful?" and she looked Tad steadily in the eye.

"Tad was almost too pleased to speak why that's great, Mr. D. I'm really glad I mean, I'll take it right along to Miss Rave—she won't be glad—oh, not at all."

"Father, mind such a slip—be sure I'll never leave him to sort the mail again—and you'll be certain and let Miss Rave know how it happened—to think as it's being lying here among some old bills of father's as had nothing to do with the office at all—and the poor dear never to know."

"Oh, yes, I'll tell her exactly," promised Tad eagerly and in all good faith as he took the letter, "and I'll tell the postmaster in town what I hope to it all right—and she'll be so pleased with the good news I've got that I'm sure she won't blame you at all, and besides, it wasn't your fault, was it, Miss Dawson?"

"Well, I hope she'll forgive me—us all, I mean, and give her my love and tell her as there's never a one as hopes she will be happy more true than Mary Ann Dawson—now, maybe you're best be going or school will be out—good-bye."

It had been a Waterloo for all Mary Ann's plans, but thanks to the open frankness of Tad's disposition, she felt she had made a good retreat from a sudden weakness in her knees that if it had gone soon, that his evident trust in her good faith would bring that which had the first proved so alarming and disconcerting to poor Tad's "lay-out."
